To understand how we perceive the scope of the ROUNDMAP™ we need to consider all value orchestration processes. While value creation generally involves costs - driven by the business dynamics - delivering value is generating revenue (customer dynamics) which is the scope of the ROUNDMAP™. The end result (margin) - what can be captured as value to offset all the costs involved in the value orchestration processes - determines operational success.